

Accept loan payments from other financial institutions by offering online loan payments.

With the Rise loan payment collection module, credit unions can receive guaranteed funds from outside their institution in real time. Many credit unions struggle with securing loan payments from other financial institutions, especially from indirect lending members. This is an inconvenience for the member and increases potential delinquency. Rise improves the member experience by delivering loan payments from other institutions utilizing the RTP network or other cost effective payment rails. Rise helps the borrower better manage their cash flow and ensures payments are made on time.
